PUBLICATION PROGRAM
1967 CENSUS OF MANUFACTURES

Industry Series (80 reports, Series MC67(2)-20A to 39D). Each report provides information for a group of related industries (e.g., dairy products). Final figures for the United States are shown for each of the 422 manufacturing industries on quantity and value of products shipped and materials consumed, cost of fuels and electric energy, capital expenditures, inventories, employment, payrolls, man-hours, value added by manufacturing, number of establishments, and number of companies. Comparable statistics for earlier years are provided where available.

For each industry, data on value of shipments, value added by manufacturing, capital expenditures, employment, and payrolls are shown by geographic region and State, employment-size class of establishment, and by degree of primary product specialization.

Area Series (51 reports, Series MC67(3)-1 to 51). A separate report for each State and the District of Columbia presents data for industries and industry groups on value of shipments, value added by manufacturing, employment, payrolls, man-hours, new capital expenditures, inventories, and number of manufacturing establishments. Comparable statistics for earlier years are provided. Similar totals for all manufacturing industries are also shown for counties, standard metropolitan statistical areas and their central cities, and other cities with significant manufacturing activity. For selected standard metropolitan statistical areas and larger counties, data are shown by industry groups. The number of establishments in each major industry group is presented by size of establishment, county, standard metropolitan statistical area, and city.

Summary and Subject Series (about 12 reports, Series MC67(1)-1 to 12). Each report contains detailed final statistics for an individual subject, such as size of establishments, inventories, capital expenditures, fuels and electric energy, water consumption, and distribution of sales of manufactured products.

Special Report Series (about 8 reports, Series MC67(S)-1 to 8). Each report covers a subject such as concentration ratios in manufacturing; consumption of selected metal mill shapes and forms, by geographic area; industry descriptions; and manufacturing activity in government owned and operated establishments.

After separate final reports have been issued, they will be assembled and bound as follows:

Volume I, Summary and Subject Statistics
Volume II, Industry Statistics
Volume III, Area Statistics

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS—This report was prepared in the Industry Division under the direction of Willis K. Jordan. Edward A. Robinson made major contributions to the formulation of concepts and definitions followed in the compilation of concentration-type data and participated importantly in the preparation of this report. Review and analysis of the data was carried out by the nine industry sections under the direction of the following sector heads: Robert J. Nealon, Foods, Textiles, and Apparel; Cyril M. Wildes, Chemicals and Wood Products; and Paul F. Berard, Metals and Metal Products.

Within the Industry Division, Milton Eisen gave general guidance and coordination to all aspects of the census of manufactures. Elmer S. Biles, assisted by John S. Berube, Clifford Bennett, and Kenneth I. Hansen, was responsible for the overall management of the census and was the Industry Division's liaison officer with other Divisions. Donald F. Clark and Carl J. Bostrom, under the direction of Jack L. Ogus, developed the mathematical techniques utilized in editing the data and in sampling the respondents. William Cooper had staff responsibility for industry classification and the system of classifying products and materials. Angela R. Daly coordinated, for the Division, the various phases of the publication process.

Systems and procedures were developed in the Systems Division, Sol Dolleck, Chief, by Eugene Wendt assisted by Samuel Schwaib. Clerical procedures were developed by Alvin Barten, Evelyn V. Williams, Carmen Taylor, Geraldine Manuel, Carl Mueller, Thomas Lowenstein, and Jack Margolis. Electronic computer programs for check-in, geographic coding, and administrative records were developed and supervised by Charles Venters and Terence McDowell under the direction of Zigmund Dackar and Andrew Grieco. Gene Haggy, James Moyers, Paul Poissant, and Stephan Potemkin developed and supervised the electronic computer editing and tabulation programs under the direction of Mary H. Johnson. Quality control plans and procedures were developed and supervised by Maxwell D. Jeana, assisted by John Powell and Carl Jablin. Data input procedures were developed and supervised by Leonard Tauber assisted by Paul Blackmer. Production controls were established under the supervision of Francis Boucher and James R. Pepal.

Processing of reports was performed by the Jeffersonville Census Operations Division, Joseph F. Arbena, Chief, by James S. Werking assisted by Margaret Rommel and Jordan Horne. Clerical processing was supervised by Charles Adams and quality control plans and procedures were implemented and monitored under the direction of Kathryn Clay.

Data processing and related operations were performed by the Processing Division, M. Douglas Fahey, Chief, assisted by R. M. Micoly, James Shores, and E. R. Bourdon.

Report planning and editorial review were provided by Geraldine Censky and Frances Bresnahan of the Administrative and Publications Services Division.

Arthur Horowitz, in his capacity as the coordinator of the economic censuses, made important contributions to the planning and operational phases of the work. Robert Parker contributed in the analysis of reports for the large and complex corporate organizations. James Corbett developed the computer systems for disclosure analysis, assisted by Robert Reynolds.

Special acknowledgment is due to the many businesses whose cooperation has contributed to the publication of the data.

Introduction

GENERAL—This is the second part of a special report on concentration ratios based on the 1967 Census of Manufactures. It provides information on the shipments of approximately 1,200 classes of products and the proportion accounted for by the four, eight, 20, and 50 largest companies manufacturing each class of product. Part I of this series provided similar concentration ratios for the United States as a whole and for each of approximately 422 manufacturing industries.

The separate reports of the Census of Manufactures will subsequently be issued as portions of the three final census volumes—Summary and Subject Statistics, Industry Statistics, and Area Statistics. The "Introduction" to the final volumes of the Census of Manufactures will treat at greater length many of the subjects described in this introduction. For example, the volume text will discuss the relationship of value added by manufactures to national income by industrial origin, the changes in statistical concepts over the history of the census, and the valuation problems arising from intracompany transfers between manufacturing plants of a company and between manufacturing plants and sales offices and sales branches of a company.

The 1967 census is the 28th census of manufactures of the United States. The first census of manufactures covered 1809, and (with the exception of 1829) a census was taken at 10-year intervals in connection with the decennial census of population up to and including 1899. It was conducted at 5-year intervals from 1904 through 1919, and every other year from 1921 through 1939. The census was suspended during World War II, but it was resumed for 1947. Present legislation (Title 13, United States Code) provides for a census of manufactures every five years, with annual sample surveys authorized for interim years. Such "Annual Surveys of Manufactures" were taken during the years 1949 through 1953, 1955 through 1957, 1959 through 1962, 1964 through 1966, and for the year 1968. The current legislation stipulates that the census be conducted covering years ending in "2" and "7." Thus, the next census will be taken in 1973 covering manufacturing activity during 1972.

The 1967 Census of Manufactures was conducted jointly with the censuses of business (wholesale, retail, and services), construction, and mineral industries, covering the United States, Guam, and the Virgin Islands. Separate censuses of manufactures and business for 1967 were also conducted in Puerto Rico jointly with the Commonwealth Government.

SCOPE OF CENSUS OF MANUFACTURES: DEFINITION OF MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES—The 1967 Census of Manufactures represented all establishments with one or more employees primarily engaged in manufacturing as defined in the 1967 edition of the Standard Industrial Classification Manual. The Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) is the system of industrial classification developed over a period of years by experts on classification in government and private industry under the guidance of the Bureau of the Budget. This system of classification is in general use among government agencies and also outside the government. In 1957, the system was extensively revised and historical comparability of some data seriously affected. This revision and its effects on concentration ratios are discussed at length in the introductions to the 1958 and 1963 concentration reports.

The Standard Industrial Classification Manual defines manufacturing as the mechanical or chemical transformation of inorganic or organic substances into new products. The assembly of component parts of products is also considered to be manufacturing if the resulting product is neither a structure nor other fixed improvement. These activities are usually carried on in plants, factories, or mills, which characteristically use power-driven machines and materials-handling equipment.

Manufacturing production is usually carried on for the wholesale market, for transfers to other plants of the same company, or to the order of industrial users rather than for direct sale to the household consumer. Some manufacturers in a few industries sell chiefly at retail to household consumers through the mail, through house-to-house routes, or through salesmen. Some activities of a service nature (enameling, engraving, etc.) are included in manufacturing when they are performed primarily for the trade; but they are considered nonmanufacturing when they are performed primarily to the order of the household consumer.

PRODUCT CLASSIFICATION—The product classes (5-digit) and product groups (4-digit) shown in this report are those developed by the Census Bureau within the framework of the Standard Industrial Classification. In general, the first four digits of the product code numbers refer to the SIC industry in which the product is primarily made. For example, in the product class number 20232, Canned Milk, the first four digits, 2023 identify the Condensed and Evaporated Milk Industry. The four digit code numbers shown in this report (followed by a hyphen) identify product groups rather than industries. The number 2023- identifies the total shipments of condensed and evaporated milk products, whether made in industry 2023 or in other industries. Complications occur in the few SIC industries defined in terms of processes or equipment used as well as products made. As an example, processed pork as a product of slaughtering plants is coded 20126, but if made in meat processing plants is coded 20136. Since these products are similar despite the SIC distinction, data for them have been brought together in this publication in table 7.

Although this SIC-based classification system is useful for a wide variety of purposes, it is not specifically designed to establish categories denoting competitive markets in all cases. Consequently, some products which are closely competitive, such as glass, plastic, and metal containers, are classified in different product classes. For the most part, however, the SIC-based system does group similar products together.

DEFINITION OF COMPANY—Within each product class or group shown in tables 6 and 7, a company is represented by the sum of the shipments of that product by all of its manufacturing plants. Consequently, the same company often appears in several different product classes or groups.

INDUSTRY CLASSIFICATION OF ESTABLISHMENTS—Each of the establishments covered in the census was classified in one of approximately 422 manufacturing industries in accordance with the industry definitions embodied in the Standard Industrial Classification system. Under this system of classification, an industry is generally defined as a group of establishments producing a single product or more or less closely related group of products. The product groupings from which industry classifications are derived are based on such considerations as whether they are typically produced by the same establishment, similarity of manufacturing processes, types of materials used, types of customers, and the like. The resulting group of plants must be significant in terms of their number, value added by manufacturing, value of shipments, and number of employees. The application of these criteria has led to the establishment of 422 manufacturing industries. The system operates in such a way that the definitions become progressively narrower with successive additions of numerical digits. At one extreme are the 21 very broad 2-digit groups and at the other about 10,500 individual 7-digit products. In between are approximately 150 3-digit groups, 422 4-digit industries, and 1,200 5-digit product classes. The code numbers for 7-digit products and 5-digit product classes are considered the primary products of the industry whose code number agrees with the first four digits of the product code. Accordingly, an establishment is classified in a particular industry if its production of the primary products of that industry exceeds in value its production of products of any other single industry. In a few instances, however, the industry classification of an establishment is determined not only by the products it makes but also by the processes and materials employed in making those products.

THE CENSUS REPORT FORMS—The 1967 Census of Manufactures, similar to all those since 1947, was primarily a mail canvass. The diversity of manufacturing activities made it necessary to use over 200 different report forms to canvass the approximately 422 manufacturing industries.

In the 1967 census, for the first time, the approximately 120,000 manufacturing firms with less than 10 employees were excused from filing reports. Under special arrangements which safeguarded the confidentiality of both tax and census records, limited data on payrolls, sales, and industry classification from the administrative records of the Social Security Administration and the Internal Revenue Service were made available to the Census-Bureau for use in the 1967 economic censuses.

"NOT SPECIFIED BY KIND" CLASSES—For manufacturing as a whole, the establishments with less than 10 employees accounted for less than 3 percent of the volume of output but the proportion was somewhat larger for industries characterized by small establishments such as lumber, printing, and apparel. The effect of using administrative records for these establishments was, in general, to increase the proportionate size of the "not specified by kind" (n.s.k.) product classes compared to 1963 because their shipments could not be assigned to specific 5-digit classes. The shipments tabulated under this heading for 1967 originated with two types of establishments: (1) Those with more than 10 employees which for various reasons did not report the product class detail, and (2) those with less than 10 employees represented by administrative records. At the product class level, "n.s.k." figures from both sources are combined, but separate data are shown in table 6A in the industry reports for the 1967 census. In computing the 1967 concentration ratios, changes in the magnitude of the "n.s.k." class due to the use of administrative records for establishments with less than 10 employees were taken into account. If the use of administrative records significantly affected the comparability of the 1963 and 1967 concentration ratios, the 1967 ratios were recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963.¹ This procedure resulted in adjusted 1967 ratios for a very small number of product classes.

Concentration ratios are not shown for the "n.s.k." product classes, since they would be of little or no significance. If shown, such ratios would in general indicate very low concentration among the largest companies.

Since the 1958 product class concentration ratios were based on the revised 1957 Standard Industrial Classification system, comparable 1958 data appear for almost all of the product classes. A few product classes have been redefined since 1958 so that only 1963 and 1967 figures appear. These classes have been appropriately footnoted. Compared to 1954, however, the numbers and definitions of many industries and, therefore, product classes were changed. As a result, information on the share of largest companies for 1954 is shown only for those product classes or groups in which there was no change in content between 1954 and 1958. In some instances, the 1954 data may have appeared originally under a different SIC code.

Among other limitations of concentration ratios, may be mentioned (1) the problems associated with products which have local or regional rather than national markets, and (2) the fact that ratios based on the census of manufactures must be computed by use of domestic production (or its approximate equivalent in shipments), rather than domestic consumption, as a measure of the size of the market. These and other qualifications are discussed at greater length in the introduction to the 1963 census report, Concentration Ratios in Manufacturing Industry, Part I.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF DATA FOR INDIVIDUAL COMPANIES—The Bureau of the Census is prohibited by law from publishing any statistics that disclose information reported by individual companies. In suppressing figures to avoid disclosing information of individual companies, information which can be obtained by subtraction must be considered as well as that shown directly in the tables. Thus, a concentration ratio for the eight largest companies may be suppressed not because it is in itself a disclosure but because the difference in ratios between the top four and top eight is a disclosure.

ABBREVIATIONS—The following abbreviations and symbols occur frequently, both in the census tables and footnotes:

—	zero
X	not applicable
NA	not available
D	withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies
n.e.c.	not elsewhere classified

Standard Notes: - Represents zero. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. (NA) Not available. (X) Not applicable.

n.e.c. Not elsewhere classified. n.s.k. Not specified by kind.

¹Product classes (5-digit codes) and product groups (4-digit codes) are assigned to the industry to which they are primary. Products which are primary to 2 or more industries are split according to the industry code of the establishment producing them.

²Represents for each product class or group the total value shipped by all producers in all industries. The 4-digit product group represents the total shipments by all producers of the products assigned the code with the same first 4 digits. For products primary to more than 1 industry, only the amount produced by plants with the same industry code is included. Thus, the total value of products of meatpacking plants includes all fresh meats but only those prepared meats (20116, 20117, 20118) processed in plants classified in 2011. It does not include such products made elsewhere (20136, 20137, 20138).

³Company affiliation is determined from census reports and public records. The value of shipments of products falling within each 5-digit class or 4-digit group was aggregated for plants under common ownership and company totals derived to determine the largest producers. Thus, the same company may contribute to total value of shipments in more than 1 product class or group.

⁴By definition, this product class is limited to the products produced by establishments classified in the industry having the same code as the first 4 digits of the product code. Appreciable amounts are also made in the other product classes referred to in the product description. The total value of shipments and the percent accounted for by large companies shown here are based exclusively on the products primary to this industry.

⁵1963 and 1958 not completely comparable. 1963 figures include $10,123 thousand of packaged poultry (boned and frozen) not canned. Significant amounts of this item may have been included in other products of the industry in 1963. No separate figures are available for 1958.

⁶For 1963, the formerly separate industries 2022, Natural Cheese, and 2025, Processed Cheese, were combined into one industry, 2022, Natural and Process Cheese. In the revision, individual products were redefined from the 1958 product class 20220, Natural cheese, into the 1963 product class 20221 and 20222, so that 1958 concentration ratios for these classes could not be computed.

⁷Value of production.

⁸Establishments in Alaska and Hawaii are important producers of these products. Recomputed figures cannot be shown for the 4, 8, 20, and 50 largest companies prior to 1963 without disclosing the operations of individual companies in Alaska and Hawaii.

⁹Individual products primary to other industries were included in the published totals of this product class in order to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. Percentage share of this total accounted for by large companies is not available.

¹⁰Revised concentration ratios not available because corrections to individual records could not be identified.

¹¹The composition of this product class was redefined compared to 1963. Where possible, corrections were made to the 1963 aggregate, but concentration ratios are not available for prior periods.

¹²The composition of this product class was redefined compared to 1958. Where possible corrections were made to the 1958 aggregate but concentration ratios could not be recalculated.

¹³The total value of shipments figures contain substantial duplication resulting from the fact that some of the products shipped are used as materials, parts or components in the manufacture of other products in the same product class or product group. The effect of this duplication on the concentration ratios is unknown.

¹⁴For 1963 the formerly separate industries 2094, Grease and Tallow, and 2095, Animal and Marine Oil Products, including foats, were combined as industry 2094, Animal and Marine Fats and Oils, including grease and tallow. The 1958 value of shipments figures for product groups 2094 and 2095 have been combined and the shares accounted for by the 4 and 8 largest companies recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963.

¹⁵For 1963 industry 2099, Food Preparations, N.E.C., was redefined to exclude product class 20995. Roasted coffee, which was made a separate industry, 2095. Concentration ratios for product group 2099 are not available for 1958 on a revised basis.

¹⁶By definition, this product class includes only products produced by establishments classified in the same industry but separate figures cannot be shown. See table 7 for value of such products shipped from all establishments. See also footnote 4, above.

¹⁷Ratios for the 20 and 50 largest companies not available.

¹⁸1963, value of shipments. 1958 and earlier, value of production.

¹⁹The 1963 ratios include receipts for contract and commission work and are comparable with the 1967 ratios.

²⁰The 1963 ratios exclude receipts for contract and commission work and therefore are not comparable to the 1967 ratios; however, they are comparable to the 1958 and 1954 ratios.

TABLE 6. Percent of Value of Shipments of Each Class of Products Accounted for by the Largest Companies: 1967 Compared With 1963, 1958, and 1954—Continued

²¹Excludes shipments by establishments producing filament yarn and classified in industries 2823, Cellulosic Manmade Fibers, and 2824, Organic Fibers, Noncellulosic.

²²Includes some duplication since some nonwoven ribbons are made from purchased nonwoven fabrics.

²³In 1958, data for bonded fiber fabrics, code 22991, are included with textile goods, n.s.k., code 22990. This combination was made because the data were unsatisfactorily reported due to problems associated with the product definitions.

²⁴Data for 1967 are not strictly comparable with 1963 because of product misclassification. Approximately 20-75 percent of the 1967 shipments data for code 23962 were included in other product classes in 1963. Revised figures for 1963 are not available.

²⁵Excludes commission receipts for Schiffli machine embroidering on materials owned by others. This amounted to $13.8 million in 1967 and $21.0 million in 1963. The 1967 total included $24.9 million which was not differentiated between the value of product sales and receipts for commission work. The comparable figure for 1963 was $5.5 million.

²⁶Wood chips were reclassified in 1967 from industry 2499, Special Product Sawmills, N.E.C., to industry 2421, Sawmills and Planing Mills, General.

²⁷Does not include shipments of wood chips.

²⁸Figures not available for this product class because of classification problems in 1958 and 1963.

²⁹For 1963, the 1958 product class 26613, Handpressed fiber board, was redesignated product class code 24996. The 4-digit product group 1958 data have been revised to reflect this classification and the ratios for the largest 4 and 8 companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963.

³⁰Product and product class statistics are published annually during the intercensal years in Current Industrial Reports, Series MA-25H.

³¹Ratios not available. In the mechanical conversion to the revised product codes based on the 1957 system, the products of a significant number of small establishments were not properly changed from product group 2782. Although the total shipments have been corrected, it was not feasible to correct the individual figures for small establishments.

³²Represents values reported by tar distillers and excludes shipments for tar, tar crudes, and pitches by establishments classified in industry 2911, Petroleum Refinery, and 3312, Blast Furnaces and Steel Mills (byproduct coke ovens).

³³For 1967 the formerly separate industries 2814, Cyclic Crudes, and 2815, Cyclic Intermediates, were combined as industry 2815, Cyclic Intermediates and Crudes. The 1963 value of shipments for groups 2814 and 2815 have been combined and the shares accounted for by the 4 and 8 largest companies recomputed on a basis comparable to 1967.

³⁴Excludes rubbing alcohol (primary to industry 2834, Pharmaceutical Preparations) and antifreeze (primary to industry 2899, Chemicals and Chemical Preparations, N.E.C.).

³⁵A major revision in the classification of products classified in industry 2834, Pharmaceutical Preparations, was introduced in 1963 and, therefore, prior years' data are not available at this product class level.

³⁶Includes natural glycerine only.

³⁷Includes both natural and synthetic glycerine.

³⁸For 1963, the 1958 product class 28511, Paints, varnishes, lacquers and enamels, was reclassified as product class codes 28511, 28512, 28513, and 28514. 1958 concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1963.

³⁹Product class totals for 32292 and 32294 are not directly comparable between 1958 and 1963. In 1958, certain lenses, e.g., automotive (including sealed beam) lantern, searchlight, etc., were included with other pressed and blown glassware, code 32294, the exact amount of which is not available. For 1963 these lenses are classified in product class 32292, Lighting and electronic glassware.

⁴⁰Excludes value of laminated glass (code 32313) which is included with product group 3211.

⁴¹Not completely comparable. In 1958 synthetic diamonds were classified in industry 3913, Lapidary Work. The amount is withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

⁴²Not completely comparable. In 1954, an undetermined amount of vinyl asbestos tile was included in product group 3971, Plastic Products, N.E.C.

⁴³For 1963, exfoliated vermiculate was reclassified from industry 3296 to industry 3295 and roofing granules produced in conjunction with mining operations have been reclassified from industry 3295 to industry 3296. Revised concentration ratios are not available.

⁴⁵Not completely comparable; 1954 figures include "Metal fluid milk shipping and delivery containers" valued at $8,638,000. In 1958, these containers were included in product group 34913.

⁴⁶Revisions were made for 1963 to include automobile stampings produced by automobile producing companies. Concentration ratios cannot be published for 1963 on a revised basis without approximating the operations of individual companies.

⁴⁷Value represents chiefly receipts for work done on material owned by others. The value represents only the work done by establishments classified in the industry to which the product or service is primary.

⁴⁸In years prior to 1967, parts were included with the individual product classes of 3522 whereas, in 1967, parts are included in a separate class, 35229.

⁴⁹Parts and attachments for wheel and tracklaying tractor shovel loaders are included in product class 35313 beginning in 1965. In prior years they were included in product class 35197. 1963 concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1967.

⁵⁰The definitions of product classes 35441 and 35442 have been revised. Product code 3544211, diecasting dies (molds), was included through 1966 in product class 35441, but is now included in product class 35442. 1963 concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1967.

⁵¹For 1967, taper roller bearings (35622) has become a separate product class rather than included with roller bearings complete (35623). 1963 concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1967. The 1963 product class representing roller bearings complete, had total shipments of 446.3, of which the 4 and 8 largest companies accounted for 80 and 93 percent, respectively.

⁵²This product class was previously identified as 37230.

⁵³For 1967, golf equipment (39492) has become a separate product class rather than being included with other sporting and athletic goods (39493) as was done in prior years. 1963 concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1967. The 1963 product class representing other sporting and athletic goods (including golf equipment) had total shipments of $525.4 million, of which the 4 and 8 largest companies accounted for 33 and 46 percent respectively.

⁵⁴The definitions of industry 3999 has been revised for 1967. 1963 concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1967.

⁵⁵Product classes 39993, Matches; 39994, Candles; 39995, Lamp shades; 39996, Furs, dressed and dyed, and 39997, Umbrellas, parasols, and canes are part of industry 3999, rather than separate industries as they were in 1966 and prior years. The 1967 figures, therefore, are not directly comparable to 1963 because the administrative record cases (explained in the introduction under "not specified by kind" classes) have been included in 39990 for all the above classes, rather than in each separate class. This has the effect of lowering the total value of each product class and, therefore, increasing the associated concentration ratios to a level not comparable to previous years.

⁵⁶Includes receipts for work done on materials owned by others.

¹Product classes (5-digit codes) are assigned to the industry to which they are primary. Products which are primary to more than one industry are split according to the industry codes of the establishment producing them. In this table, such products have been combined to yield a wherever-made total. See table 6 for the figures for each product class separately.

²Represents for the combination of numerically coded product classes the total value shipped by all producers in all industries.

⁴For 1963 one or more of the 1958 product classes has been redefined. Prior years' data and their associated concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1963.

⁵The decrease in percentage for the top 4 companies is the result of increase in finishing of fabric, chiefly man-made fiber, product class codes 22218 and/or 22628.

⁶Value of shipments for 1963 and 1967, value of production in earlier years.

⁷For 1967 one or more of the 1963 product classes have been redefined. Prior years' data and their associated concentration ratios are not available on a basis comparable to 1967.

⁸Excludes the value of these products produced and consumed within the same plant in the manufacture of other products. The data are limited, therefore, to the value of these products that were produced for sale in commercial markets or for transfer to other plants of the same company for use in manufacturing other products.
